STEP 1: Exchange papers.

STEP 2: Read through your partner's paper once, without making any marks on it.

STEP 3: Now read through again. This time, as you read:

- Circle anything that you think is unclear.
- Underline any places where you think the author has not sufficiently explained his or her reasons for making some claim.

If you think any of your marks need explaining, please add comments in the margin.

STEP 4: Now look at the prompt.

1. In class we considered two objections to presentism in detail: the truthmaker objection and the objection from special relativity. Choose one of these objections. Explain what the objection is. Do you find the objection convincing? Why or why not? Answer in 5 pages or less. Worth 10 points.

Do you think that the author has answered the prompt? If not, why not?

STEP 5: Do you have any other suggestions for how your partner might improve the paper?
Write them down below.

STEP 6: Go through the paper and discuss the places where you circled and underlined text.

STEP 7: Go through the comments you made on this sheet and discuss.

STEP 8: Give this sheet to your partner.

STEP 9: Just kidding. You're done!
